"IT PAYS TO BUY GOOD QUALITY"

It's whether you use something--are proud to use it and use it frequently--that determines its real value. The most expensive things in the world are those that are bought because they are bargain-basement priced and then are too cheaply-made to last or too cheap in taste for you to actually use them. The most economical purchases are those that are made based on superior quality--items that you're proud to wear or use--ones that will survive the test of time.

Hollycake stationery? Modest designs pressed deep into thick paper and paired with rich-colored envelopes. Hollycake makes your thank you notes and other messages of personal correspondence more proud and graceful than does any other stationery we know.
